See the loose wire lying on the floor.

Sound of the keyer and the sounder is not synchronous.

Still impressive.

IMPROVE AND MAINTAIN YOUR MORSE CODE PROFICIENCY

We are proud to present our new Morse tutor for smart phones and Androids.

This App is available for free download from Google play store.

The KENT Morse tutor generates random Morse code in groups of 5, or random length groups of 1 to 10 characters and lesson lengths of up to 250 groups of characters.

The selectable letters, numbers and punctuations can be played individually or in any combination.

Code speeds from 5 WPM to 40 WPM can be selected in 1 WPM steps, and an independent delay can be inserted between characters.

This feature allows you to learn each character at the correct speed but allows thinking time between characters. as you improve, the delay can be reduced.

The tone can be set between 500hz and 1750hz.

Up-load to your smat-phone or Android at:

<https://play.google.com/store/apps/details?id=morse.tutor&hl=en>

North Pole Workshop Bulletins

I have started a feed on wire 118 that sends out some bulletins from the North Pole Workshop.

We use this type of feed at SB to fill in the brief time periods when we aren't busy sending Santagrams to the workshop.

The bulletins are from the creative mind of Steve Kistler, my telegraphic partner at SB.

Due to many things that have collided in my personal life this past month, we won't be going live on the wire via the internet.

We are using a modified version of MorseMR and a local wired LAN with a Beagle Bone Black as the KOB server.

If you are doing a Santa type of event, feel free to use the North Pole Workshop feed.

I plan to leave it active until sometime after Christmas.
